Sen. Stamas says ‘Constituent Contact Days’ successful

LANSING – Sen. Tony Stamas, R-Midland, held “Constituent Contact Days” this summer by visiting with residents and holding office hours throughout all 10 counties in the 36th Senate District.

“It was a wonderful opportunity to get out and listen to my constituents,” Stamas said. “As an elected official, I feel it is important to continually keep in contact with the people who elected me. In fact, many constituents brought up issues they are concerned about, which has directly led to legislation I am working on.”

The office hours were open to residents that wanted to express their opinions or needed assistance with a state issue.

Stamas also walked door-to-door in all 10 counties comprising the 36th Senate District, including Otsego, Montmorency, Alpena, Crawford, Oscoda, Alcona, Ogemaw, Iosco, Gladwin and Midland.

“I couldn’t think of a better way to listen to my constituents than to travel throughout the district meeting face to face,” Stamas said. “This was a perfect opportunity to hear their thoughts, concerns, and ideas.”

Stamas plans to continue office hours throughout the ten counties.

“Office hours offer a wonderful opportunity for constituents to give me their comments or let me know what problems they might be having with state government,” Stamas said. “I encourage residents to take advantage of this time.”
